When he was running for Governor we were told, by these self-constituted guardians of the President's political conscience that the Governor was a "spoilsman," a "wire-puller," the ex-partner of "Third Tweed' and the head centre of political ring's, intent noon the ex-partner of "Inter tweet; and the head centre of political ring's, intent upon plubdering the State. So low was the Magwanp opinion of Gov. Hill, indeed, that they left to the Democrats the entire work of electing him. Yet this is the man whom the President specially invites to ngton as his guest.

If Hill can only be prevailed upon to take himself out of the way in 1888 the dear Mugwungps will forgive all.

A Growing Town. Our esteemed contemporary, the Aroos 'ook Republican, takes a just price in the growth of Caribou. It says:

growth of Caribou. It says:

Caribou has had a phenomenal growth in population and wealth, for a New England town, ilmost wholly engaged in lumbering and agricultural in lustries. The town was incorported in 1839. In 1860, the population was 297, and the valuation $26,264. In 1880, the population was 3,756, valuation $337,388. The valuation satisfies a print, according to the town assessors' report was $473,041, and the increase in the runtler of polls from 527 in 1880 to 633 in 1886, ind cates a present population of at least 3,600. The extension of the New Brudswick Railway to Caribou has been a prime factor in building ap a populous town and village in the wilds of Maine.

Following swift on a recent bequest to Harvard University by a miserly New Englander comes a legucy of $400,000 from the late John O. A. Williams, of Boston. This is to be applied to the praiseworthy purpose of aiding indigent students, who are to accept the help as debts of honor.

A correspondent calls the attention of the Boston Globe to the free ship bill as follows:

As your paper has always been the thampion of the laboring man's rights, I should like to call your attention to the Dunn Iree ship bill, which strikes a heavy blow at the interests of laboring men in this country, and consequently think that you should uppose it to the extent of your ability.

The vorrespondent is right concerning the think of the content of the first the strikes a heavy blow at the interests of laboring men in this country, and consequently think that you should uppose it to the extent of your ability.

The vorrespondent is right concerning the fought so bravely for his country.

The correspondent is right concerning the effects of the bill, but he places the Gloke in a most uncomfortable position. Like the Morrison bill, which also strikes a heavy blow at the interests of laboring men, the free ship bill is a Democratic measure, consequently the Globe has to handle, it very tenderly. These two measures, the product of Democratic statesmanship, should convince the wage earners of the hostility of the Democratic policy.

The awfulness of sudden death is emphasized once more by the peacil notes, till lying on his desk, which were to serve as memorands for some freeh manuscript, benator Logan was fond of literary work and his carnest desire was to write the truth, the whole truth, and nobining but which the world at large makes of a mad like Logan, upon whom the microscoped of public curtosity is constant y fixed, a wide impression prevails that he was possessed of a mad desire to achieve the honors of the Presidency, and that he was working incessantly towards that end.

But it moral aspirations can float to that the decision of a law, and justice would be done. Some may say it is too much. No, it is not. This country can never pay the debt it owes the gallant men who went out in her defense at a time when the very life of the nation was assailed."

There seem to be different definitions of "pernicious activity" at the capital, different in Kind as well as degree, says a Washington despatch. The difference may be fairly shown by the following statement of facts. In July, 1885, T. H. John A. Lagan was an under-estimated man. He stood high both in the field and the council. He was justly entitled to stand higher. Allusion has been made to his early life and the great moral courage he exhibited in Southern Illinois at the breaking out of the great rebellion. It required the highest degree of courage and patientism to do thus in a community where the rebel element was both bitter and dominant—where nine out of every ten was against the country.

THE DAIRY MAIDS.

Their Festival a Grand Success—Report of away Saturday evening the Affair.

As was expected the Dairy Maids' Fessule by G. W. Spratt. tival, given by the Cecilia Club yesterday afternoon and last evening, at Norombegs Hall, was a great success. The hall had been very neatly decorated for the occasion and was thrown open yesterday afternoon. On account of the severe cold the attendance at the matinee was not as large as it should have been. The follow: ing very attractive programme was, however, carried out to the satisfaction of all present, much applause following the different parts;

Dairy Maid's Drill. Violin solo—Air Van Reading—Experience of a Bashful Man, Mr. Hunnewell. Mr. Hunnewell.

Miss Nettle Gratien

The accompaniments were played by Misses Abbie N. Garland and Annie E. Wasgatt. Miss Gratien's song was received very generously. She has a splendid voice to, one so young, and with the proper training this little lady will soon be one of our finest singers. She was encored and responded very sweetly with In seconding the resolutions, Comrade "My Love to Come." Ifofreshments were ex-Vice President Hamlin paid an eloquent served throughout the afternoon and evening by the young ladies, and during the associate in Sublic life for many years, od several supers selections. A candy supper time Andrews' full orchestra playtable was in charge of Mrs. Maxwell

> Wasgatt and Lon Getchell. The evening attendance was very large, the spacious galleries being packed and all the room on the floor not required for the entertainment being occupied. The hall was uncomfortably cold, but the evereises were of such a nature that mone left until the close. Following was the programme: Minsterl Overture, Col.

> Overture, tryt part and ollo, with imitations of birds, tong anding danching, cackling of fowls, bell volus, champages flax and pop, etc.

He sometimes milatake public men. This bapensys that, although the snow was very pens because we do not know them, when Dairy Maids Drillwas executed splendidly. The young ladies were costumed both appropriately and very handsonely, many of the dresses being very rich. All carried milking stools and pails which they used In the many intricate and gra eful move-ments of the drill. The march was led by Misses Getchelt and Robinson and the music of the orchestra served as an accompaniment throughout the drill which was under the direction of Mr. Andrews. At the close there was a grand chorus by the dairy malds, who after their song seated themselves upon the stools. There seated themselves upon the staots. There was frequent applause during the drill and the audience watched it with great interest. Mr. Andrews deserves credit for the proficiency attained under his direction.

Mr. Hunnewell's reading was of a hamorous character and finely done, as is ewerything it this line that he attempts. Miss Gratien's song was given by request and received a warm encore to which she responded with the same selection as in the atternoon. Aliss Wasgatt's song fully evinced that she has one one of the most promising voices of any young lady in Bangor. It is of very rare musical quality and when fully colivated will place a brilliant future before its possessor. She was encored and sang the Milk Mid's Song, by Virginia. The Apollo Quartette pear and sing A Vintage Song, from Lore ly, and then the audience was hardly satis fied. Nothing in the line of local talen log their welfare by well considered legis lation.

It was my p easure to stand with him in his successful advocacy of that great and just measure for their relief—the equalization of boundies.—I stood with Logan 12 all the legislation for the relief of the soidiers and their dependent families. Not one can appreciate better than myself the extent of the vast and incessant labor he gave to those measures. We raise monuments of gran to to our heroic dead' but the heroic acts of John A. Logan will outlie them all long after these monuments shall have been dissolved. They will live as long as the love of liberty springs in the human breast—and as long as men prefer hoblity of character and noble deeds.
